

Lecture capture consent form – Students

This document constitutes your consent to make a recording of teaching, learning and assessment activities, for the purposes of teaching the University of Cambridge’s registered students. This consent form should be applied to any teaching materials or sessions recorded on or after 5 October, 2020.

Consent may be obtained either in writing, by completing this form, or verbally. Consent given verbally will be taken to apply to all items in this document. Consent may be given for a single session, or for multiple sessions at a time, provided that it is made clear precisely which sessions are captured by this consent.

The University’s full Policy on the Recording of Teaching Materials/Lectures and other Teaching, Learning and Assessment Activities is available from this link.

I have been provided with the University’s Policy on the Recording of Teaching Materials/Lectures, and other Teaching, Learning, and Assessment Activities.

I consent to the processing of my personal data collected within the recording (my image, voice, opinions, etc.). I understand that this consent can be withdrawn at any time, leading to the recording being withdrawn from use in University teaching. I also understand that the information provided in this form, and any associated records about my engagement with lecture capture initiatives, will be stored by the University as part of its administration of the lecture capture service. Records will be managed in line with the University’s Statement of Records Management Practice. I am aware that further information about the use of my personal data is published in the relevant privacy notice available from: <https://www.information-compliance.admin.cam.ac.uk/data-protection>.
